Excerpt from Governor s Message and Annual Reports of the Public Officers of the State: And of the Boards of Directors, Visitors, Superintendents, and Other Agents of Public Institutions or Interests of Virginia The commercial ascendano of Virginia was at one period of our history undisputed; her natural, advantages of navigable streams, cli mate and soil, gave it to her. Trusting to these, we have neglected those artificial means, which could alone secure it to us permanently; and therefore the commerce, which once whitened with its sails our seaports, has almost disappeared from our waters. The example set us by our neighbors at the North is one of wisdom, and deserves our most earnest attention. In spite of a bleak climate and sterile soil, they have, by a judicious policy, afforded such facilities to intercom munication and trade, that commerce with her golden tides has filled the land with plenty, prosperity and wealth. Our natural advantages remain still the same; they are unequalled by any Atlantic state; and whilst it is now probably too late to divert the commerce of the At lantic cities from its present channels; still it is in the power of demon[doc.
